What this guide shows

Designed for structured formal correspondence, `legal-en` uses a restrained black treatment and a horizontal reference area. The optional number and matter commands populate the outlined fields above it, while the custom attachment command supplies the list at the end. Unused fields collapse, leaving the subject directly below the reference area.

Adapt the reference values and attachments only where the correspondence needs them; the prose itself remains inside `LetterBody`. The neutralized sample describes no real matter. This is a Form B oriented presentation for formal correspondence, not legal advice or a certified layout.
